

Glory be to the One who hears the faintest whisper and the softest words, who sees what lies within the veins and the depths of bones. He is the Lord of months, days, ages, and years. Exalted is He, who has honored us with the highest honor, and bestowed upon us countless blessings. He has given us immense good and protected us from great harm.

We praise Him abundantly, thank Him profusely, and exalt Him greatly. We send blessings and peace upon our beloved Prophet in great measure.

All praise belongs to You, our Lord. You have lengthened our lives, delayed our appointed times, adorned and concealed our affairs, and turned away harm and evil from us, our homes, and our leaders. Through our good thoughts of You,

You have granted us mercy and acceptance. You have allowed us to reach Ramadan only to free our necks from the Fire.

O Allah, make us among those who are sincere in their fasting, sincere in their days, sincere in their generosity and giving, and sincere in all their deeds.

Our Lord, just as You have honored us with the month of fasting, make its passing upon us a year of goodness. Make its passing upon us a year of goodness,

O Possessor of Majesty, Perfection, and Beauty.

O Allah, let Your ease overcome our hardships, let Your wealth replace our poverty, let Your forgiveness erase our sins, let Your relief lift our burdens, let Your health fill our bodies, fulfill our aspirations in this month, restore our rights, protect us from those who intend harm against us, and show us what brings us joy. Honor us in this month by freeing our necks from the Fire, answer our prayers in it, and have mercy on our deceased.

O Allah, make us the most merciful among people towards others, and the kindest of creation to Your creation. We seek refuge in You from hardness of heart, bad character, and looking down on others.

O Allah, grant us tenderness towards our parents, our spouses, our children, our families, and all people.

O Allah, grant us compassion for those under our care.

O Allah, make us among those who care for the needy, wipe away the tears of the orphan, and strive to fulfill the needs of widows and the destitute.

O Allah, instill in us the love of benefiting others and the love of serving people.

O Allah, heal every sick person among us, grant well-being to all who are ill, and make our health a source of goodness for us.

O Allah, guide and grant success to those who manage our institution and our mosque, those who care for our affairs, and those who dedicate their time to our well-being.

O Allah, enable us to appreciate them, cooperate with them, and pray for them. Make us encouraging and uplifting, not resentful or complaining.

O Allah, make us among those who overlook and forgive, who pardon and reconcile, who smile and extend their hands in peace, by Your mercy,

O Most Merciful of the Merciful.