

Glory be to Allah.

All praise is for Allah.

There is no god but Allah.

Allah is the Greatest.

O Allah, send Your peace and blessings upon our Prophet Muhammad as long as people fast and break their fast.

O Allah, make us pure and ready to meet You.

Make us worthy of being close to You.

Admit us among Your forgiven and beloved servants.

Make us from Your successful party and support us with Your victorious help, by Your mercy, O Most Merciful.

O Allah, grant us a good life, a God-conscious soul, a pure way of living, a peaceful death, and a return to You that is not humiliating or disgraceful.

O Allah, attach our hearts to hope in You and cut off our hope from anyone besides You.

O Allah, You know our flaws — so cover them.

You know our needs — so fulfill them.

You are enough as our Guardian and enough as our Helper.

O You who created us and formed us, who gave us speech and guided us — You never disappoint the one who calls upon You. Grant each of us what we hope for and fulfill our wishes in this world and the next.

O Allah, protect us from Your punishment, beautify us with Your remembrance, and use us in Your obedience. Do not remove from us the beautiful covering of Your protection.

O Allah, grant us safety through Your gentleness. Protect us from Your punishment and secure us from Your wrath, by Your mercy and grace, O Ever-Living, O Sustainer.

O Allah, cover our faults, calm our fears, protect us from every direction — in front of us, behind us, to our right and to our left — and we seek refuge in Your greatness from being destroyed from beneath us.

O Praiseworthy, O Glorious One, forgive those who came to us from near and far. Reward them for the distance they traveled, erase their sins, and raise their ranks.

O Allah, forgive those who could not attend because of distance or excuse. Protect them wherever they are and return them home forgiven, surrounded by Your goodness, and freed from the Fire.

O Allah, in this blessed night remove from our bodies, our hearts, our minds, and our lives every pain, illness, fear, anxiety, sadness, and whispering doubt.

Remove from us physical illnesses, emotional struggles, and spiritual sickness.

O Allah, heal us and our families from what doctors cannot cure and medicine cannot treat. Surprise us with relief.

Our Lord, our thoughts are overwhelmed and our situations feel tight. We come to You broken — so mend us. We are afraid — so give us safety. We are sick — so heal us. We are in need — so enrich us.

O You who knows what is hidden in the hearts — wash away tonight our pains, our losses, our wounds, our sins, and our worries, by Your mercy.

O Allah, let our hardships leave us. Let them disappear as if they were never there. Let them become distant memories. Let our worries and fears become part of the past — gone without return.

O Allah, revive us again. Bring us happiness again. Accept our repentance again. We ask You for more and more of Your mercy.

O Allah, among these rows are people who are sad, burdened, in debt, tested, or sick. O Fulfiller of needs, change their condition to something better, easier, and more beautiful. Send down upon us calmness and peace.

Among us are those who say:

“My Lord, harm has touched me, and You are the Most Merciful of the merciful.”

O Allah, surround us with coolness and peace.

Let us leave tonight saying:

All praise is for Allah who protected us, sufficed us, and sheltered us — by Your mercy, O Most Merciful.
