

Our Lord... O You who answer every prayer,
O You who fulfill every need,
O You who relieve every hardship,
O You who hear every voice from above the seven heavens.

O Allah, send Your peace and blessings upon our Prophet Muhammad, the best of all creation.

O Allah, beautify our lives as long as You keep us alive.
Grant us health and well-being for as long as You allow us to remain.

Place blessing in everything You have given us.

Protect the blessings You entrusted to us.

And when our time comes, shower us with Your mercy.

O Allah, remove from us the hardships and trials that we know and the ones we do not even know about.

Forgive us for the sins that only You know.

Our Lord... our Lord... O Guide of those who feel lost, lead us to the path of the truthful,
and make us among Your righteous servants.

Grant us faith that guides our lives,
a light that shows us the way,
and lawful provision that is enough for us.

O Allah, we seek refuge in You from becoming careless because of Your patience with us, from daring to cross Your limits, and from taking Your commands lightly, O Lord of all worlds.

Our Lord, when we were small, You placed mercy in the hearts of our parents toward us.

And as we grew older, You kept surrounding us with blessings again and again.

You continued to give, and You continued to delay punishment even though we made mistakes.

So please do not expose our faults on the Day of Resurrection.

Do not disgrace us in front of people because of our sins.

Do not let our mistakes become a cause of humiliation and brokenness.

Our Lord, these people have come to You from every direction.

They stand before You humbly.

Their heads are lowered in reverence.

They bow before Your greatness.

They fall in prostration before You.

And they raise their hands asking You.

They are waiting for relief from You — so give us and them relief.

They are asking You for healing — so heal us, heal them, heal our sick and the sick among the Muslims.

They ask You to forgive their loved ones who passed away — so forgive our deceased and theirs and all the Muslims who have passed.

They ask You to fix their lives, their families, and their wealth — so bring goodness to our lives and theirs.

They hope for Your mercy, the mercy that embraces everything — so have mercy on us and on them.

They ask You to free them from the Fire —

so free our necks and their necks from the Fire.

And among us and among them are people who have private needs, hopes, prayers, and silent requests.

O You who owns this world and the next — fulfill our needs and their needs.

Let us return to our homes tonight with Your love surrounding us...

having drawn closer to You...

chosen by You...

forgiven by You...

freed from the Fire by You...

healed by You...

provided for by You...

protected by You...

and with our hearts comforted, our pain eased, and our hopes fulfilled.

Our Lord, Your generosity never runs dry.

Your giving never stops.

Your hand is always full of goodness — You give and give however You will.

O Lord of this beautiful night, grant us Your gifts,
and grant us a peaceful, content life.

O Allah, You made freeing others a way of drawing closer to You,

and we are Your servants — weak, poor, and in need of You.

So be generous with us and free our necks from the Fire.

O Allah, we testify before You that we are not fit for the Fire.

We are not fit for punishment, hardship, or suffering. So if there are people who deserve Your pardon and well-being, make us among them.

O You who said, “Everyone acts according to their nature.”

Our nature is weakness, mistakes, and shortcomings... but Your nature is forgiveness and mercy.

O You known for Your goodness,

O You described with the most beautiful qualities,

O Allah, You are the One who pardons and loves to pardon — so pardon us.

Pardon us, O Most Generous.

Pardon us, O Most Merciful.

Forgive our parents, our spouses, our children, our brothers, our sisters, our families, those we love, and those who love us.

Grant us from Your forgiveness, Your protection, Your well-being, Your provision, and Your covering of our faults things that no eye has ever seen, no ear has ever heard, and no heart has ever imagined.

O Allah, grant us the good we asked for, the good we hoped for, the good we remembered and the good we forgot to ask for.

O Allah, have mercy on the Muslims.

Have mercy on the Muslims.

Move them from hardship to relief,
from sadness to happiness,
from trials to well-being,
from fear to safety.

Bring them back to You and to Your religion.

O Allah, provide for the one who has searched for work for a long time and cannot find it.

The one who knocks on doors and they remain closed.

Open for them a door of lawful provision that enriches them and brings comfort to their hearts and their families.

O Allah, bring ease to those who long for marriage but have not yet found the right spouse.

Grant them righteous spouses who bring peace to their hearts, and bring their hearts together through what is lawful and blessed.

O Allah, give relief to every distressed person,
ease to every struggling person,
good news to everyone waiting for hope,
an answer to every sincere prayer,
and guidance to every confused heart.

O Most Generous, O Giver of gifts.

O Allah, heal every sick person fighting illness and struggling for recovery.

O Allah, especially heal those exhausted by cancer, those whose bodies have grown weak from pain and treatment.

Send them healing from You — a healing that leaves no illness behind.

Make it coolness and peace for their bodies, comfort for their hearts, and strength for their families.

Mend their brokenness.

Strengthen their weakness.

Give them patience in their trial.

Make their suffering a purification of their sins and a raising of their ranks.

Open for them the doors of hope and mercy.

And whoever among them is nearing their final moments,

keep them firm upon the words of faith.

Grant them a beautiful ending.

Make their graves gardens from the gardens of Paradise,

and reunite us with them in Your eternal home.

O Allah, heal our sick and the sick among the Muslims.

Lift this hardship from us and from all Your servants.

For You are the Healer.

There is no healing except Your healing —
a healing that leaves no illness behind.
